or Dec. 13. The session of the United States Senate. The Delaware legislature which opened its doors to the United States Senate, showed no signs of wavering while the opposing elements of the Republican party stand equally determined to prevent his hand grasping the toga. The Democrats hold the balance of power, but the Republicans have not yet been able to induce the upper chamber of the new congress to be filled. It is to be awaited with interest among politicians throughout the country.

While the senatorial struggle tends to overshadow all else there is considerable business of importance to be conducted at the hands of the legislature this session. Chief among the proposed measures is one to establish a state sanitarium for consumption. Proposals to provide additional agricultural education and to appropriate money to the state board of agriculture. A temporary combination of the control of the legislature may be effected between two of the three, and the desired result attained. Caucuses were held last evening plans for this course discussed by those well acquainted with the situation, however entertain some that a peaceful settlement will be reached. The culture for fighting diseases of trees and plants and animals will also receive attention. Edward Addicks became president of the devolving ambition to ston, Jan. 13.—Henry P. Moulton, United States attorney, has appointed H. Lewis, a colored lawyer, well known as an old Harvard foot ball player, as assistant United States attorney for Boston. It is said the selection was made at the instance of President Roosevelt, while many conjectures have been made, some saying that an appointment was made as answer to a query raised by the southern states why no negro appointments were made in the North.

WINNIE MERCER,

ous Base Ball Pitcher, Commits Suicide.

Francisco, Jan. 13.—Winnie Mercer, the famous base ball pitcher, has been playing in California the all American team since last committed suicide last night by setting on the gas in his room in the dental Hotel. He left a note, but made no motive. Mercer had registered at the hotel as George Murray of Philadelphia.

AUDIENCE AFFECTED.

St. Marys, W. Va., Jan. 13.—Nearly the entire audience at the auditorium theatre as well as members of "The Bells" company, suffered from asphyxiation on the wholesale scale last night, during the performance by the company. Two actresses, Mrs. S. C. Simpson and Miss Louise McCaull, are in their rooms at the hotel, with only slight chances of recovery. The theatre is heated and lighted by natural gas. The weather was bitterly cold last night and proper ventilation was not provided. An over flow of unconsusmed gas caused the trouble.

WIFE MURDERER

George Cook Pays Penalty for His Crime.

Halifax, N. S., Jan. 13.—This is the date set for the execution of George W. Cook for wife murder in July last. Cook cut his wife's throat and then lay down and awaited the coming of the police. When put upon trial, he said he was drunk on the afternoon of his wife's death and did not know what occurred.

Countess Lonyay Says That All is Harmony.

Report That She Has Been Deserted by Her Husband is Unfounded.

Vienna, Jan. 13.—Countess Lonyay (Princess Stephanie) daughter of King Leopold, of Belgium, has telegraphed from Cape St. Martin, near Menton to the Wiener Journal denying an impudent report of the differences between herself and her husband. A report was published in several Vienna papers that Princess Stephanie's husband, Lonyay, had deserted her at Menton after serious differences.

BIG ROLL

Of Money was Lost by Gates at Faro.

The Steel Magnate Made a Plunge at a Game He Could Not Beat.

New York, Jan. 12.—John W. Gates has been trying to win some money in Canfield's Forty fourth street gambling house. He tried twice. It cost him $10,000, or an average of $5,000 a sitting.

These, at least, are the figures that are accepted as correct by the up-town sporting fraternity. There was some doubt expressed that anybody was able to pry Mr. Gates away from his roll at cards.

Up at Canfield's, however, they have a man who is operating along entirely new lines. He deals faro in a manner that would make the old time Western dealer look like a stevedore.

It was before the table presided over by this genius that Mr. Gates sat down. He bought chips for $100 a piece but that didn't faze the man at the faro box.

Mr. Gates looked over the box when it was inverted for inspection at the beginning of the deal. There was nothing peculiar about it. And for that manner there is nothing at fault with the box.

It was all in the cool head, the trained eye and the lightning like finger movement of the dealer.

The dealer does not resort to any of the offensive and clumsy mechanical devices that have enabled so many other dealers to turn fortunes over to their side of the table. He was a slight-of-hand artist from whom Kellar or Hermann could have learned much.

With his nimble fingers he turned this card or that, and the keen eye of the steel magnate never saw as much as the batting of an eyelash out of the way.

Mr. Gates' money went across the table so fast that he paused once or twice to see if the table was tipped up, but the dealer was as placid as an effigy of cold bronze. There was nothing wrong with the table.

After the first visit, Mr. Gates scratched his brow and wondered how it could have happened. He filled up his pockets and went back to find out.

The magician was at the faro box when he saw Mr. Gates coming back. He knew the reputation of the steel magnate for quick work but he only smiled wistfully and began to draw out the cards—and get more of the hard-earned money of the Wall street plunger.

... looked as if it was no more of an effort to get Mr. Gates' money than anybody else's.

Other men of wealth and sporting inclinations have sat down before this same dealer until they had to borrow money for cab hire to get home. Last week a well known man is said to have lost $50,000 to the skill of this nimble-fingered dealer. A loss as high as $100,000 is recorded as having occurred a few weeks ago.

Mr. Gates is quoted as saying he would be willing to give another $10,000 to know exactly how the dealer did it.

SUFFERING

In Springfield From Famine in Fuel is Intense.

Springfield, O., Jan. 13.—This city is experiencing the worst suffering from cold in years. A coal and gas famine exists. The gas supply is so low as to be almost worthless. The manager of the Abbott Gas Co. says the only reason Springfield has any supply is because it is near the Lancaster fields. He says the gas may give out entirely in a couple of days.

SPIRIT OF CHARITY.

New York, Jan. 13.—All New York was interested today in the benefit to Georgia Cayvan, who for several years has been confined in a sanitarium at Flushing, N. Y., hopelessly ill. All of the leading managers, actors and actresses co-operated in the arrangements for the benefit, and the Broadway theatre was selected for the performance. Weeks ago every available seat had been sold, netting $15,000, while subscriptions poured in from many sources, including $400 from Mr. and Mrs. George Gould, $200 from Joseph Jefferson, $200 from William Gillette and $200 from Henry Miller.

Among the prominent players who contributed their services to the monster performance were James K. Hall, William Faversham, E. H. Sothern, Mary Manning, Mrs. Laughton, Ethel Barrymore and Fay Davis.

Until her present illness overtook her no woman on the American stage was more widely or favorably known than Miss Georgia Cayvan. When Daniel Frohman initiated the Lyceum Theatre stock company, destined to share the honors of dramatic production with Augustin Daly, Miss Cayvan was the stellar attraction of the fine playhouse. Because of her splendid talents and her personal charms in private life Miss Cayvan has been called the "Mrs. Kendall of America." Miss Cayvan was born in Bath, Me., and is now about forty-four years old.

WILL PAY IN SILVER

Washington, Jan. 13.—The Imperial Chinese government has made representations to the powers that in as much as it is not able to pay installment of the international indemnity in gold, will it be allowed to pay the same in silver and to increase duties on imports so that hereafter they may be collected in gold instead of silver, at the same figure. The United States government replied it is willing to receive the indemnity in silver but that it cannot consent to the collection of duties in gold, which would practically double the present collections.

For Fighting the Tobacco Trust, the Existence of Which is Dangerous.

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 13.—Independent cigar and tobacco retailers from all over the country met in convention in Handel Hall today to discuss ways and means of fighting the Tobacco trust. Preliminary steps were taken for the formation of a strong national association, which will have headquarters in Chicago. The plan of campaign calls for a close combination with the trade unions, particularly the cigar makers and tobacco workers' unions. A fight against the retail branch of the tobacco trust is to be inaugurated simultaneously in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Buffalo, Indianapolis and other cities where the trust has attempted to obtain control of the retail trade.

BANK WRECKERS

Up for Trial Today in Massachusetts Court.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 13.—The postponed case of George M. Foster and John W. Dickinson, charged with complicity in wrecking the South Danvers National bank of Peabody, was called for trial today in the United States district court. The trial was commenced about a year ago, but had to be postponed because of a criminal charge being brought against one of the jurors which resulted in sentence.

A REBATE PROVIDED.

Washington, Jan. 13.—The house committee on ways and means at a meeting this morning, decided to report a substitute for the bill of Mr. Hill of Connecticut, so as to provide a rebate on all kinds of coal from all sources for a period of one year. This rebate being equivalent to the Dingell tariff duty, virtually places coal on the free list during that time. The bill is to be called up in the house this afternoon and passed at once.

DEMANDS OF MINERS

Columbus, O., Jan. 13.—The annual convention of the United Mine Workers of Ohio, was called to order by President W. H. Haskins, in Odd Fellows Temple at 9 o'clock this morning. Three hundred delegates want to demand an increase of twenty-five per cent in wages, and also insist upon national delegates in the coming joint slate convention of soft coal miners and operators, standing unflinchingly for diggers receiving pay for coal weighed before being screened, known as the run of the mine. A proposition under consideration, is an increase of the defense fund levy from one half to one per cent of the miners yearly wages. This morning's session was devoted to the appointment of committees and passing on credentials.

NOT A SHRED

Of Feed for at Least a Million Head of Cattle.

Chamberlain, S. D., Jan. 13.—Since Dec. 1, great ranges west of the Missouri river have been covered with deep snow and ice crust. Not less than a million head of cattle have been cut off from feed. The loss already amounts to over ten per cent. Entire droves are wandering at the mercy of the elements without a shred of feed.

SILVER AT 20 TO 1.

Washington, Jan. 13.—Ex-Senator W. E. Chandler, of New Hampshire, who is now chairman of the Spanish claims commission, has issued a signed statement urging the remonetization of silver at the ratio of 20 to 1 by concurrent action of the United States, Great Britain, France and Germany. He says in part: The simple and true way to enable China to pay her indemnity to the United States, England, Germany and France, is for those nations to remonetize silver at a new ratio of 20 to 1.

And the Prison Doctor Does the Job in Short Order.

Fears of an Epidemic Should the Disease Once Find Its Way Behind the Walls of the Big Ohio Penitentiary at Columbus.

Columbus, O., Jan. 13.—(Special)—Over the state will stand the expense of work of vaccinating the prisoners; procuring the points and having the work done. The fact that more smallpox has developed has caused some anxiety on the part of those associated with the operation. The doctor expects to prison it is feared that nothing prick the arms of 250 men this week would stop the progress of the disease. When it is considered that there are over 1600 men in the penitentiary the vaccination of this great number becomes a sort of wholesale vaccination. It has not been decided whether the guards will be vaccinated by the penitentiary physician or by a doctor on the outside. The decision will be subject to Warden Derby. There are 100 guards, and there is a question whether the

ROMANCE OF INVENTION.

Stevens and His T Rail and Cunard's Clipper Ship Model.

Robert Livingston Stevens sailed from New York to Liverpool before the advent of the ocean steamer. In those days the passage took two months, and Stevens passed many an hour, jackknife in one hand and a piece of wood in the other, brooding over a problem that had often worried him--how to run a railroad without stone stringers for tracks. He wanted to get an iron rail that would "hold" and would take the place of the thin strips fastened to the chair of the roadbed. Just before he reached England his whittling revealed to him the solution of his problem, and that solution took the form of a T rail with a broad base that could be applied directly to a solid wood support. That T rail is still in use on all railways of the world.

The elder Cunard, who was apprenticed as a lad to a Scotch shipbuilder, is said to have amused himself in whittling the hulls of vessels. Occasionally he would fit one of these with masts, sails and rigging complete.

Tired of familiar types, he would experiment with new ships, and one of these it was that attracted the attention of his master, because it would not maintain its upright position in the water. Experiments were made to balance it in order to give it the proper trim. The clipper-like shape and graceful long lines of the model promised great speed. Such is said to be the origin of the standard model of the Cunard and later ocean greyhounds--Chicago News.

Old Age and Appetite.

An English scientist deprecates increased eating as a means of keeping up the strength of those who are advancing in years and particularly objects to the repeated and general use of concentrated forms of animal nourishment for the aged. Overnourishment in old age is apt to lead to pains and aches due to the impairment of excretion and a long protracted course of overfeeding will end in an attack of gout. Even artificial teeth are not to be considered an unmixed blessing, for by a provision of nature the teeth begin to decay and become useless just when the system begins to thrive without much animal food of course.

Indigestion, says the scientist, is mostly not a disease, but an admonition.

"It is the language of the stomach and is mostly an unknown tongue to those who are addressed." It means that the individual has not yet found his appropriate diet. "There is no food whatever which is wholesome in itself. That food is wholesome which is so to the individual."

The Great Western Oil Company has completed Nos. 3 and 4 on the Wm. Wise Jr. farm, section 27, Washington. The production was 10 and 15 barrels respectively.

In Chester township of Wells county, F. Corn completed his No. 7 on fee lease, section 17, with a production of 75 barrels the first 24 hours. In section 6, the Detroit Oil Company has another good well in its No. 18 on the Levi Huffman farm, which was good for 60 barrels. M.

Paxton's No. 3 on the S. Julian farm, section 9, had an original output of 25 barrels. H. C. Mount, at his No. 6 on the G. Walker farm, section 5, has a 20 barrel producer. In section 4, Perry A. Little & Co. completed No. 5 on the Thomas Carter farm, with a production of 30 barrels.

In Jackson township, the Ohio Oil Company has a 15-barrel well in its No. 11, J. W. Herrall, section 7.

A test well drilled by the Slifer Oil Company, on the H. A. King farm, in section 23, of Liberty township, Wells county, was light the first day's production being 5 barrels.

The Western Oil Co. has a first class well in Wabash township, of Jay county. It was a test on the Jay Boniface farm, section 7, and produced 90 barrels the first 2 hours after being shot.

In Wabash township, Adams Co., the SHEEP TROUGH AND RACK.

A Good Combination Device for Use When Feeding Grain.

When feeding their sheep grain, people may make and try dozen different kinds of feeding racks and not find one better than the one here illustrated, says a National Stockman correspondent, who describes the rack as follows: Last winter after making some like the plans given in farm papers, my hired man and I set out to make one to suit our own fancy, and it comes nearer my idea of a good trough than any I have ever seen or tried. Yet there is one objection which is rarely overcome in any combined feed trough and rack. The young lambs persist in using it for a safe place in which to take their morning nap, and no matter how nicely their own little parlor is furnished with coats, bed and bedding they delight to spend part of their time on the dining table of the old sheep.

The trough is made of inch poplar lumber, with the exception of the slats on the rail, which are of elm, a half inch thick and two and a half inches wide. The trough is 12 feet long, 16 inches wide, 22 inches high and from the top of the sides it is tapered to a point. The sides are six inches wide, nailed on the edge of the bottom, thus making it five inches deep. The sides are three inches wide and extend six inches below the bottom. These extend to the ends and made flush with the sloping part, make the base about twenty-six inches wide, which insures it against being turned over by the sheep.

The rack part is made by nailing the slats, which are nineteen inches long, one foot apart on pieces 3 inches wide and 12 feet long. These racks are hinged to the sides of the trough so that they rest on the ends of the trough when closed. On the upper part of the rack, at either end, a small chain about two feet long is fastened, and on the other half of the rack there is a hook to secure the chain. Either side of the rack may be opened full length of the chain or at any width desired.

ONE-HALF OF SHEEP TROUGH.

When closed, the chains hold the rack in place. The advantage of having it in this way is the convenience in lifting it from the trough. The sheep have to eat from the top, and they cannot get the seed and dirt in the wool on their back.

As all parts of the rack are rounded and made smooth the sheep do not rub off the wool from their masts and be encouraged. If it were not for tendency the sheep to jump the rail, we do not have to make it so high. But it is better that they should never get in the habit of jumping, as it is very injurious to them and might be the cause of losing many lambs.

Sugar Beets in Arizona.

Experience has shown the following precautions to be necessary in attaining the best results in sugar beet growing in Arizona:

First--Early planting: January in Salt river valley and February on the upper Gila.

Second--Selection of suitable soil: The best results were obtained on a silty river loam of high water retaining power.

Third--Careful management of water: Enough water for the first three and a half months to secure good tonnage; no more than necessary thereafter in order to maintain quality.

Fourth--Thorough cultivation

It appears that an old farmer near Houghton owned a large pile of small stones, with which he wished to fill a ditch, but he had already got about as much work out of his boys as they were willing to do, especially as it was nearing the hour for a ball game. The old man was bound to have the stones moved, anyhow, and so, pretending to have discovered a nest of snakes in the ditch, began stoning the place where the snakes were alleged to be. The boys, who a few minutes before were weary and listless, were now all life and animation. Each stoned stones as fast as he could grab them, and the pile was soon in the ditch. There are two morals to this story--first, when you see about killing a snake throwing stones is a gladstone occupation; second, in selecting a father be careful not to choose a har--Detroit Tribune.

A DIFFERENCE.

An American girl, pretty and bright, had been spending some time in Leamington, England.

The afternoon before her departure she suddenly remembered that several books from the public library should be returned. She took the volumes, saluted forth and presently encountered a young Englishman whose acquaintance, though brief, had not been without attraction.

"Really, now, how queer you American girls are!" he said. "Now, I suppose if you were at home, walking on Fifth Avenue, you would never be seen with a girl juggling all these books."

"Certainly not," she quickly and archly answered. "If I were in America, the gentleman would be carrying them."

An Autograph Request.

Embassadors receive many queer requests in the course of their official duties. Here is one that was sent to Mr. White by a western woman, who inclosed pieces of linen, when he was minister to Germany many years ago:

"We are going to give a fair in our church, and I am making an autograph quilt. I want you to get me the autographs of the emperor and empress, the crown prince and Bismarck, and tell them to be very careful not to write too near the edge of the squares, as a seam has to be allowed for putting them together."

Tender Vegetation and Irrigation.

Tender vegetation, such as young alfalfa, is often destroyed by a coating of mud on the leaves, but with the furrow method of irrigation, where available, and other precautionary measures the damage from this cause may be greatly lessened.

"Really, now, how queer you American girls are!" he said. "Now, I suppose if you were at home, walking on Fifth Avenue, you would never be seen with a girl juggling all these books."

"Certainly not," she quickly and archly answered. "If I were in America, the gentleman would be carrying them."

The Reward of Kindness.

A kind hearted man in New Zealand had a sudden shock a little time ago. He was standing on a railway platform giving apples to a circus elephant caressed in a cattle truck as the circus was on the move. The train started, and the elephant, not to lose the last apples in the basket, promptly seized the man in his trunk and carried him along with the train. The train had to be stopped and the kind hearted man rescued from the trunk of the traveling elephant.

BURIED UNDER SNOW.

The Great Storm That Overwhelmed New England in 1717.

In the spring of 1717 an amount of snow fell in New England that has not been equaled during the three centuries of its history. The great storm began in February and buried the earth to the depth of ten to twelve feet. Cattle were buried in it as were found frozen stiff under the drifts, and hundreds of sheep and rams. Wild animals grew so desperate from the cravings of hunger that they became nightly visitors to the farmers' sheep pens. Bears and wolves followed the deer even into the settlers' clearings

A Soldier, Well Known Here, is Missing From the Home at Sandusky Searching for Him.

Officer Frank Grant, Saturday, found two bolts of cloth hidden beneath a bush along the Erie railroad east of here. It is supposed the material was stolen at Cleveland, and brought to this city by a couple of tramps recently arrested in south Lima. The case is being investigated.

Oysters Stolen.

Some time Saturday night, some one stole a large tub of oysters from in front of the Pittsburgh store on south main street. There is no clue to the guilty person. Mr. Tucker, the proprietor of the store, says the person who took the oysters would confer a favor by returning the tub.

Deal Abandoned.

After two weeks negotiation, J. E.
Crider, Edward Love and Frank Carr, failed to agree upon terms when the contract of partnership was to be signed yesterday evening. For the present negotiations have been abandoned.

Surprised their Friends.

A few days before Christmas Miss Bertha Bliss, and Earl Jolly, went to Montgomery, Ind., to visit the parents of the latter, at that place. The couple returned yesterday evening and today are receiving the congratulations of scores of friends upon their marriage, which occurred during the people, each worthy of the other.

Strangely Missing.

Samuel Caman, formerly engaged in business at McGuffey, and well known to many in this city, is mysteriously absent from the Soldier's Home at Sandusky, where he became an inmate some time ago. It was not known by his relatives and friends that he was missing from the institution until Sat-

The following paragraph has appeared in a number of Ohio newspapers during the past two days.

At a meeting of a number of Democrats of Northwestern Ohio, in Lima, C. D. Crites was endorsed for the nomination for governor of the state.

Mr. Crites was deputy auditor of Allen county from 1882 to 1883 and was auditor from 1883 to 1891. From 1884 until 1897, he was the bank examiner of the county and since 1897 he has been the cashier of the First National bank of Lima. He was chairman of the Democratic state executive committee from 1882 to 1893 and was a member of the executive committee which Kilbourne ran for governor.

Mr. Crites has many friends in this part of the state who would be glad to see him make the race for governor of the state. He has many ambitions in that direction.

DICTATOR OF OHIO.

The sympathies of a tender hearted public have been excited for several days by the embarrasing plight in which Senator Hanna has been placed on the gubernatorial question. Col. Sternick has an ambition to be governor. So has Gen. Dick. Senator Hanna is the special friend of both. He has been under political obligations to both. There are suspicions that to each he has given cause for trust in his support, and that each was looking with confidence for the announcement of favor that would be equivalent to a nomination of the office. Never was there a man in more perplexing predicament since the dashing Capt. Moseback stood between the rival ladies, Polly Peachum and Lucy Locket, and sang despairingly,

"Wee' other dear enameer away.
How happy could I be with either."
But why should the question of Ohio's next governor rest with the decision of Senator Hanna? When did the people of this state - a nation in themselves - unreservedly put his hands now comes it that he is in position to say with the arrogant European autocrat, "The state? It is I!" Does he hold a charter from the Republican of Ohio to substitute his will for their free choice? Has Marcus become Caesar? Since when has the Republican party of Ohio been condoned into one man?

There was a time when the Republicans of this state acknowledged no boss and bowed to no one man's decree. They met in their several caucuses and conventions to choose delegates to a state convention for the nomination of a candidate for governor. Candidates for the nomination were not compelled to ask the consent of a state boss before permitting the use of their names by their friends. They did not have to go to the Perry Payne building, hat in hand, and humbly beg, with bowed head and bated breath, for the great man's decree to the Republicans of the state who should be nominated.

Now caucuses and conventions are but matters of idle form; it will be more than ten months before the people of Ohio can elect a governor. It will be many months before the Republican nominating convention is held. Yet for days the whole state has been listening for the word from the Perry Payne building which decides who the candidate shall be. With the utterance of that word it appears to be understood, the matter would be settled, and it would be useless for any other than the favored candidate to make a move. Has the once great and now Republican party of Ohio come to this fitful condition?

The qualities of the leading candidates who have been waiting on the door of the Cleveland Jove, on their various claims for the position, are not now in question. In a free contest the delegates from Cuyahoga county would go to the state convention united in favor of their local candidate. The present chief competitor would also have a strong following from his own home district. There are other ambitious Republicans who would perhaps have material backing in the convention. There the matter would be thrashed out and the successful candidate would have the right to claim that he was the free choice of the Republicans of the whole state, if elected, and of the twenty-three gubernatorial term since the formation of the Republican party in Ohio, nineteen have been filled by Republicans - he would be entitled to hold himself the choice of the people of Ohio. But a governor whose nomination was wholly dependent on the decree of one man in an office in the Perry Payne building would represent, not the will of the people of Ohio, nor even of the party whose ticket he headed, but simply M. A. Hanna, self-commissioned dictator of Ohio - Cleveland Plain Dealer.

ENTANGLING ALLIANCES.

Fathers of the Republic Banished With the Monroe Doctrine.

The Monroe doctrine is being held in abeyance while President Roosevelt continues with England and Germany in their raid on Venezuela. This is hard to be wondered at when it is considered that the pictures of Washington, Jefferson and Monroe have been relegated to the basement of the White House as too old fashioned and out of date for these strenuous times. In place of the picture of the Father of His Country and the other patriots, there have been installed others on more modern subjects. One of these pictures entitled "Love and Life," a gift from the artist Watts to the nation, was banished from the White House under the Cleveland administration as too realistic. Its appearance there having been objected to by the W. C. T. U. and other kindred organizations.

Several patriotic societies have offered to find a safe resting place for the banished portraits, which, by the way, are of inestimable historic value. The picture of Washington is the only one in existence that he personally sat for, and the likeness of Jefferson is the last in existence.

The administration having tendered its services to kings, emperors and potentates to assist them in collecting their own and their subjects' bad debts from insurrection-wrecked Venezuela and the consequent laying aside of the time honored Monroe doctrine, the portraits of the fathers of the republic would surely be out of place where such infamous masters are discussed and respected.

With the constitution strangled to the utmost tension and the Declaration of Independence of kings, powers and potentates declared to be obsolete and worthless, our sister republic - the south - is in a very bad place with regard to similar attacks on their sovereignty, for they are out numbered to a large and may be fatal extent in any time.

The United States will evidently be forced to act as a guardian of the debts of these South American republics or asked to stand aside for their collection by armed force, as in the present case, having once bowed down to the present masters of Europe and declared that we will not prevent the collection of over 100 million dollars of debt, and that the Monroe doctrine will only be invoked if territory is required, there will be no end to the complications that may arise. But there is the rub. How can we dispossess these rapacious kings and emperors if they once take forcible possession? They are joined together in a strong pact to resist us, and a long and disastrous war might be the only alternative.

Entangling alliances with foreign nations is the one to be dreaded thing that every administration of whatever party has always avoided until the present time. But it now seems to have been accomplished.

Two of a Kind.

Free Trade in Coal.

When President Roosevelt was on his stamping tour, he declared in his speech at Cincinnati that anthracite coal was on the free list. All of the Republican speakers echoed the same declaration. The Democrats showed that an anthracite and bituminous coal were both subject to duty under the Dingell tariff law. They were denounced as protectionists. Election is now over, and President Roosevelt acknowledges that he was mistaken and recommends in his message that the duty be removed from anthracite coal. It is now up to a Republican congress to pass such a bill, but so far no steps have been taken to that end.

It is well to inquire why bituminous coal should not also be placed upon the free list, especially as the coal trusts are making preparations to export coal to Mediterranean ports to compete with ours, and in those markets.

The Weather.

Washington, Jan. 13 - Ohio: Increasing cloudiness probably show with rising temperature tonight and Wednesday.

COAL AND THE TARIFF

Congress Could Give Relief, but It Will Not.

WHAT REPUBLICAN LEADERS FEAR

Compliance With the President's Recommendation Would Open the Question of Protection to Trusts and Force the Cowards to Meet the Dreaded Issue.

The president, in his message to congress, recommended that the duty on anthracite coal be abolished. One or more bills to amend the Dingell tariff bill have been introduced in congress to that end, but the committee to which they have been referred has taken no action. It is stated, satisfactorily, that the Republicans in congress have determined not to report any bill that will "meddle with the tariff," as even such an innocent bill as one to remove the duty on anthracite coal would if reported be open to amendment and thus start up the whole question of reforming the protective tariff.

A vote upon an amendment to such a bill would not put all the members of congress on record, and most of the Republicans do not care to be recorded as being opposed to taking off the duty on trust products that are being sold to foreigners cheaper than to the American people. A great many Republicans congressmen would be between the devil and the deep sea if they were compelled to record themselves on this issue. Some of them, perhaps enough to carry an amendment, might vote with the Democrats. To have a number of Republicans vote to place trust products on the free list would be disastrous to that party, as it would show a split on an important issue and would perhaps lead to further demoralization.

Thus to save the Republican party from exposing its lack of unanimity even the recommendation of President Roosevelt for the removal of the duty on anthracite coal remains unnoticed by the party leaders, and this slight relief to the people is denied.

If the president had also included bituminous coal in his recommendation, his cause would have been much stronger. For free soft coal would give greater relief to the coal consumers than free hard coal. There have been some speculations of what is called Scotch and Welsh anthracite coal under the names of the present coal famine, but as it ranks but little higher than the good qualities of bituminous coal it is not very salable at the price which is demanded for it, nor would it be if the duty of 67 cents per ton was not added to its cost. On the other hand, free bituminous coal would greatly relieve the distress now prevailing at the seaboard cities, for the Nova Scotia coal would compete at New York and Boston, and every ton imported would reduce the demand for anthracite by one-half or two-thirds the relative value of the coals varying somewhat for heating purposes. The importation of Nova Scotia coal, free of duty, would therefore relieve the situation and help to regulate the price and keep it within the bounds of reason. It would allow more coal to be shipped from the mines to the western states by reducing the quantity needed at the seaboard. It would also relieve the railroads of that much freight and allow them to hurry forward the much needed coal, which they now say they are unable to carry in sufficient quantities to supply half the demand.

Free coal, both anthracite and bituminous, is therefore an immediate necessity to every one, and yet congress delays to pass this most necessary legislation. For partisan reasons the Republicans have decided that the tariff issue must not be opened for discussion. This may be "letting well enough alone" from the standpoint of Senator Hanna, who is a mine owner and who is piling up riches by charging exorbitant prices for his coal, but it is cruel and inhuman to the suffering poor and robbery of those in better circumstances.

The political necessities of the Republican party are so interwoven with the trusts, it so relies upon the trusts for campaign funds, that the leaders who dominate congress will not allow any bill changing the present tariff law to come up for consideration. The Democrats would have the right to offer amendments to such a bill when it reaches the stage of committee of the whole, and if a bill was reported to place anthracite coal on the free list the Democrats would propose to include all coal. Amendments would also be offered to put trust products on the free list, and that is what the Republican leaders fear. Thus the object misery that comes from lack of fuel is intensified by the grasping partisans who control the congress of the United States. The trust mother, the tariff, must not be touched even to a hair of her head to prevent the suffering and loss of life that are sure to follow if free trade to coal is not at once provided for.

The Tariff on Coal.
What has become of the president's recommendation that the tariff on anthracite coal should be removed and anthracite put actually where it now is nominally on the free list?

This was the one recommendation of his message that met with universal approval among the common people who wish that he had gone further and asked for the removal of the tariff on all coal.

But congress seems no more disposed to give the people partial than complete relief from the oppression of the coal monopoly under the tariff. - Chicago Record-Herald.

One of the most remarkable narrow escapes occurred Monday afternoon on the Wm. Watson farm in Liberty township, says the Findlay Republican, when a wagon load of nitro-glycerine was wrecked and spilled on the very porch of the Watson home.

That the explosive did not go off is almost a miracle in the line of nitro-glycerine episodes in the history of the oil fields.

The shooter had opened the gate and, believing that his horses were obedient, did not take the precaution to fasten them.

The animals however, seemed to become possessed of a sudden temerity, for as soon as

TWO CASES

Of Smallpox Found in the Rural Districts.

Findlay and Spencerville Also Have a Scare Over Appearance of the Disease.

Yesterday, health officer Dr McCall

was called into German and Sugar

Creek township to see several patients who were thought to be suffering from mild attacks of small pox. He found one case at the home of Denial Sherick, in northwest German township and another mild case of the disease at the home of a family named Conrad in Sugar Creek township, northwest of Eilda. He advised the township board of health as to the precautionary measures to be adopted to prevent spreading of the disease and vaccinated all who were known to have been exposed to the disease.

The authorities are carefully watching another case in this city that has shown slight symptoms of a very light case. The patient is in careful quarantine and the health board will not disclose the location of the place where the patient is being cared for until it is determined whether or not the case is one of smallpox.

Findlay and Spencerville are frightened over the appearance of the disease within their respective borders.

The latter place has nine cases and has prohibited the holding of public meetings. Findlay has a case in which the patient is a barber who shaved people for two days while suffering from the disease.

Management of the Board
Is Recognized

By Stockholders of the Park Company.

All Members of the Board Were Re-elected by Acclamation.

Proposed Sale of Machine Works Deferred to Give the Oil Well Supply Co. Time to Make Proposition.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Lima Park and Improvement Co., was held in the assembly room at the court house last night and although the attendance was not large those who were present took active interest in the affairs of the organization and were gratified with the report that was submitted by the officers for the past year's management of affairs. This report was presented by Secretary W. F. Neuman and it showed that all of the expenses of the organization had been covered by the receipts for rental of the park grounds for pasture purposes and a balance of $450 was on the treasury. It was also reported that the Lima Locomotive & Machine Co. had agreed to pay the taxes and insurance on the machine works property for the first six months of this year in return for using the property over the time limit originally agreed upon.

The question of the annual election of the board of directors came up and on motion by R. C. Eastman was voted was re-elected. They are E. V. Donon, Harold Cunningham, H. F. Northcapp, Joel Snyder, C. P. Stolzenbach, F. E. Harman, L. E. Stamets, W. L. Agerter and H. D. Campbell.

The proposition for the purchase of the machine works property by the Locomotive & Machine Co. was discussed and W. L. Parmenter reported that a representative of the Oil Well Supply Co. would be in the city in a few days to submit a proposition on behalf of that company contemplating the use of the shops as the manufacturing of oil well supplies. It was voted that the board of directors accept the Oil Well Supply Co.'s proposition and then call a meeting of the stockholders for the purpose of discussing the matter.

The by-laws of the Park & Improvement Co. were amended so as to provide that all holders of stock in the machine works property shall be permitted to vote on the proposition for the disposition of the property. The clause formerly read, "lot owners."

Harold Cunningham urged the public to give some plan by which the city may take the park grounds off of the hands of the company before the property becomes encumbered for the payment of taxes. During the past year the board had managed to pay all expenses but if not it was equally successful in the future. No more beautiful or better available property could be secured for park purposes within a reasonable distance of the city and Mr. Cunningham said that the city authorities should be urged to secure possession of the grounds as soon as possible.

WILL

Meet the Kenton Champions
In a Contest

To Decide Long Drawn Out Dispute.

Lima Representative Team is Booked for a Game at Kenton Tomorrow.

Boys Are in Good Condition and Expect to Make a Reputable Showing Against Old Time Rivals.

At 4:30 tomorrow afternoon the representative basket ball team of Lima, will go to Kenton to meet the Champion Iron Co.'s celebrated five. In no other game of the season could quite so much interest be taken, as Kenton undoubtedly has the strongest aggregation in the state, and at home is almost, if not quite, invincible. Last season Lima played Kenton at the Y. M. C. A. and the visitors were defeated. The result was so unexpected that the Kenton people rioted, raved and tore their hair, declaring all kinds of unfairness and carried a chip on their shoulders for the rest of the season.

In justice to Kenton it can be said that the game was perhaps played under difficulties by the visiting team, as the floor of the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium is far short of the regulation, and the members of the Champion Iron Co. aggregation could have been easily handicapped in the team work. But that Lima has a team equally as fast as Kenton has been several times demonstrated. Kenton and Lima have both played Yale, and the Silent Five and in both instances, the defeat on the part of the home team was much greater than was administered by Kenton. On form it looks like there is at least a point in favor of Lima, as being better team of the two. That point, however, is more than overcome by Kenton's long practice and familiarity with the regulation floor. Speculation has but little bearing on the result of tomorrow's contest, however, and all that can be promised is a game full of life and glee.

The home team will be composed of Landick, center, Smith and Carnes, guards, Hollihan and Crosson forwards; Miller Landick and Tom Peate substitutes. The five are the same as last season with the exception of Swan the fast guard, who is attending college at the Ohio State University. Frank Wallace will go with the team as the Lima official.

Manager Kelly is anxious to get a good crowd of enthusiastic rooters to accompany the team, and there should be a sufficient amount of local pride to induce to that end. He has received word from the Erie officials that a rate of 80 cents would be allowed if fifty tickets could be sold, and with some hustling that number ought to be secured. If you want to be included, hand your name to manager Kelly at Reams tobacco store on north Main street.

On the Eve of Battle.

Bobby Reakes, who meets Ackerman of Kenton, at Moore's garden Thursday evening, is spending a few days at Toledo, together with his wrestling partner, the Flying Dutchman. He is working out at the gymnasium and getting some much needed rest from his recent hard bouts. Ackerman will take part in the basket ball game tomorrow evening against Lima and the exercises he gets from the sport will only put him in better condition for the first real test of his wrestling abilities. While Reakes is confident of being able to throw Ackerman three times within the specified hour, he is a man who never takes chances, even with one who is as yet considered a novice at the business.

Two High School Teams. There will be an interesting game of basket ball at the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow evening at eight o'clock between the all seniors of the high school and the high school representative team. Both teams are composed of the very best of material and are so closely matched as to guarantee an especially exciting game.

MISSING

Man Found Dead in a Closet at Delphos.

Disappearance of John Scherger Accounted For—His Body Was Covered With Snow.

J. W. Fisher, editor of the Delphos Courier, made a gruesome discovery about three o'clock yesterday afternoon when he opened the closet door in the rear of the premises and discovered the dead body of John Scherger. The latter conducted a carriage manufactory at Delphos, and had been mysteriously missing from home since last Saturday morning. The body gave evidence of having been without life for several days and when found was covered with snow which had drifted in through the half closed door. There was no indication of foul play as $83.30 in money and valuable papers were found on his person. Death is believed to be due to sudden heart failure.
